

Group health insurance for daily allowance

Information sheet for employees leaving the company

Right of transfer to individual insurance

Insured persons resident in Switzerland are entitled to switch to individual insurance when they leave the group of insured persons or if the contract is cancelled.

The insurance company grants coverage up to the amount of benefits insured to date, without any health examination, to such persons switching to individual insurance, in accordance with the conditions and rates valid in individual insurance. The state of health and the age upon entry in the group health insurance for daily allowance are decisive.

There is no such right of transfer

- in the case of a change of job and transfer to a daily allowance health insurance with the new employer ;
- if the group daily allowance health insurance is placed with a new insurer and this insurer is obliged to maintain the same level of insurance coverage ;
- for employees who have reached AHV retirement age.

This right of transfer lapses three months after the person concerned has left the group of insureds or the contract has been cancelled.
